Community Agreements

1. Inclusion: Invite the quiet voice.

Be aware of the personal factors and power differences that may cause certain individuals to feel uncomfortable with expressing themselves. Create a welcoming space with opportunities for all individuals to speak up with dignity and respect.

2. Diversity: Make space for those not at the table.

Pay attention to which demographics are not being represented in the discussion party. Acknowledge groups that are missing and make your best attempt to advocate for them but not speak on their behalf.

3. Trust: Assume good intent.

Give your peers the benefit of the doubt. Do not jump to conclusions about what someone may be implying, but also do not minimize the feelings of someone who has spoken out about feeling attacked.

4. Compassion: Respect everyone's opinion.

Be open minded and embrace sharing. Don't attack other people for their opinions, and foster an environment of friendly discussion even if you don't always agree with your peers.

5. Brave: Listen courageously.

This skill is so important to strengthen our relationships with peers in discussion. We need to overcome a fear of listening to dissenting opinions and our fear of silence, becoming bold enough to explore unfamiliar perspectives and examining both common ground and differing beliefs.

6. Accountability: Be responsive and graceful.

We encourage that our CCC members stay present and engaged in membership. Hold each other accountable when agreements are violated by calling each other into the conversation privately, coming from a place of respect and recognizing our role as community leaders with the values of equity, access, and inclusion.
