Subject: Bellevue Youth Theatre Receives Grand Award

The Bellevue Youth Theatre (BYT) in Crossroads Park was recently honored as the Grand Award winner at the Washington Aggregates & Concrete Association's (WACA) annual Excellence in Concrete awards ceremony on April 27, 2016. The Grand Award is the highest recognition given by WACA, a non-profit industry trade association. A wide variety of public works projects are nominated for this award every year, including roads, bridges, airports, dams, museums, and utility structures, as well as private residential, commercial, and industrial structures. Last year's Grand Award winner was the Snoqualmie Falls Powerhouse. BYT was recognized for its unique design, technical merit, and environmental sensitivity. BYT also received awards in the Cast-in-Place Structures and Special Applications – Technical Merit categories. The city last won an award from WACA 12 years ago for the Meydenbauer Bridge project.

Present tonight to recognize the Bellevue Youth Theatre is the project architect, Bob Becker, and WACA's Chapter Director Bruce Chattin.
