The year was 2005, and Pete Nelson had been building tree houses for 20 years. He began, he says, when he was five years old, building his first tree house with just a hammer and a screwdriver...and his Dad. He and his houses progressed through the years, as he learned from each experience and from each tree. Living in Washington State, and always in search of property, he found that four parcels, on just under four acres, were available in Fall City, very close to his home. And amazingly enough, a neighboring property with a lodge/home was also for sale. The idea for their own Tree House Bed and Breakfast was born! Come take a tour of the Treehouse Point tree houses! Tours take approximately 1.5 hours and we endeavor to take you inside as many of our treehouses as possible. (Please bring money for lunch).
