BE SAFE

and know how to safely survive without electricity or gas.

Stay informed.

Stay safe during a power outage

- Wear layers of clothing inside the house
- Do not use any of the following indoors: generators, gasoline and propane heaters, outdoor heating equipment, or cooking equipment such as a grills and camp stoves
- Keep generators outside at least 20 feet from any door, window or vent
- Do not use open flames in the house
- Have extra batteries nearby for flashlights and lanterns
- Keep refrigerator and freezer doors closed as much as possible

Protect yourself and others

- If it is possible to do so, stay home and avoid driving on roadways
- If you must drive, stay away from storm-damaged areas and drive using extreme caution
- Keep pets warm and inside
- Have pet supplies as part of your emergency kit
- Clear sidewalks of snow and debris near your home or business
- Check to see if your neighbors need help

PREPAREDNESS FOR PEOPLE WITH ACCESS AND FUNCTIONAL NEEDS

Create a health card

- List allergies and food sensitivities, medications and types of health care equipment
- List communication difficulties (e.g. hearing loss)
- List medical providers
- List contact information of your personal support network members
- Keep a copy of your health card in your emergency kit
- Have your health card readily available, especially for first responders

Maintain medical equipment and devices

- Have a backup power supply for medical equipment and devices, such as a wheelchair or scooter
- Keep model information with your emergency kit
- Know availability of your treatment facility or alternate facilities, especially if you are dependent on dialysis or other life-sustaining treatment

Conduct an “Ability Self-Assessment”

On your own, are you able to:

- shut off gas, water, electricity utilities
- operate a fire extinguisher
- carry your emergency supplies kit

Seek assistance from your personal support network in conducting the assessment; have a plan if you are unable to do these tasks independently.

If there is a disability or mobility concern, specific needs should be considered during a winter storm. Create a personal support network of friends and family members. Share with them copies of important documents, emergency and evacuation plans, keys, and health care information.

Additional tips

If you use an augmentative communications device or other assistive technologies, plan how you will evacuate with the devices and how you will replace them or communicate without them if the equipment is lost or destroyed

Prepare cards with phrases, pictures, or pictograms for communication, so your support network or first responders can communicate with you

If you are blind or have low vision or are in the support network of someone who is:

- Prepare Braille or text communications cards
- Label your emergency supplies with Braille or large print

INFORMATION ABOUT SNOW PLOWING

Priority

Before a storm

When snow is forecasted for Bellevue, the city's street crews get ready by monitoring the weather forecast, establishing staff schedules, loading trucks with sand, anti-icing and de-icing chemicals.

During a storm

Bellevue streets are plowed and de-iced based upon a priority street route system. Primary arterial streets and primary neighborhood loops are cleared first to accommodate fire, medical and police response, as well as transit, school buses and commuter traffic. If snowfall is continuous, these primary assignments may require repeated plowing and sanding before neighborhood streets can be cleared.

To view the priority snow route map, go to BellevueWA.gov/transportation.

You Can Help

During a snow storm, it is best not to drive on the roads so that crews can conduct continuous plowing. If you must drive and are behind a snow plow, leave extra distance between vehicles. Do not pass the snow plows.

If possible, do not park vehicles on streets. This allows the snow plow crews to quickly and safely plow the entire roadway.

Windrows

A windrow is a berm of snow left across a driveway entrance. When streets are plowed, a windrow may be formed. Since driveways are private property, it is the responsibility of the homeowner to keep them clear. The city is not able to clear windrows.

The city does not maintain private properties, business complexes, apartment complexes, alleys or private streets.
