

Lake Hills Greenbelt Trails

2 Miles

A Redtailed hawk circles overhead as hikers and joggers pass below. Two miles of comfortable, multi-use trails wind through the Lake Hills Greenbelt connecting Larsen and Phantom Lakes. The greenbelt is a wetland corridor encompassing about 172 acres of woods, wetlands and suburbia. Wildlife habitat accommodates an amazing variety of birds and animals such as coyotes, muskrats and many songbirds. The Lake Hills Ranger Station on SE 16th Street provides a convenient source of information about the greenbelt.

Traveling the trails is a truly diverse experience. There are many opportunities for wildlife observation as well as enjoying evidence of the area's Asian and Native American cultural heritage. In the early 1900's Japanese immigrants farmed the land between the two lakes. Part of this heritage still exists at the Farm Fresh Produce Stand on the corner of 156th and SE 16th and at the Larsen Lake Blueberry Farm on 148th Avenue SE. Portions of the trail's route were originally developed by Native Americans who had a winter encampment near Larsen Lake.
